Intensity Of Earth Tremors Greater Than Those In 1923, Say Scientists

BULLETIN TOKIO, May 23 (midnight) -A distinct earthquake was felt here tonight at 11:45 o'clock. No damage has been reported.

By LUTHER HUSTON

TOKIO, May 23 (10 p. m.)-Meager reports trickling into Tokio tonight over crippled lines of communication indicate that the earthquake which today rocked the Sanin district of the Hyogo prefecture, northwest of Osaka, took a ll of 1000 dead and injured.

Train Thought Buried After Earth Tremor

WASHINGTON, May 23. Kinosaki and Toyooka were the hardest hit in today's earthquake, said a cablegram to the Japanese embassy this afternoon from the Tokio foreign office. The message stated that the full extent of the quake had not been determined, but that several hundred houses had col-lapsed in the affected area.

Agency dispatches from saka reported that 200 houses collapsed in the town of Toyooka. The earthquake was confined to the province of Tajima, the dispatch said.

Tokio advices said eighty lives were lost in Kunlyafa and Fukuchi.

Panic gripped the stricken region and the wildest confusion held sway in the towns swept by the fire after the tremor.

A train due at Toyooka was missing and believed en-tombed in the Asihya tunnel, which collapsed during the tremblor.

WHAT NEXT?

Someone asks what is to replace the crossword puzzle, and in the same breath expresses the hope that it will be something to take the people out of doors.

Perhaps no fad or diversion was ever more popular than the crossword puzzle. It has the double advantage of being great fun and at the same time more or less educational. The only equipment needed is a lead pencil-and an eraser. It has many good points, chief among them being that it has introduced hundreds of people to the dictionary.

But, as has been said, the best form of recreation, especially for those who have been doing indoor work all day, is not sitting humped over the dictionary. So there is a great opportunity for some clever person to originate a game that will take the place of the crossword puzzle as a diversion of the masses, and still compel a certain amount of physical exercise.

Golf is an immensely popular game, but what a very small per cent of all the people can or do avail themselves of its advantages. A very few indulge in tennis, skating or swimming. Baseball is limited to schoolboys and professionals. No outdoor game or sport appeals to a very large per cent of the population. The majority of the people take no exercise except that required by their daily work.

So here is a chance for someone to become a public benefactor by originating some outdoor game that requires no special grounds, no arbitrary number of players and little or no special equipment. Anyone who can get the masses to exercising in the open air will be contributing to the health and happiness of America.

OUTDOOR THEATRES

Cities are not like Topsy of Uncle Tom's Cabin fame. They don't just grow. A certain amount of concerted effort and community spirit and at least a few citizens who are able to look ahead and be alive to the city's possibilities and opportunities are essential.

Pomona was one of the first communities in Southern California to establish a Greek theatre in a splendid natural amphitheatre in the hills adjoining its community park. Pomona's Greek theatre was a reality long before we had heard of the Hollywood Bowl. Pomona's outdoor theatre is used three or four times a year. The complaint is made that it is not practical for use on account of the evening chill. So it has become a municipal liability and the people are asking, "What is to be done with the Greek theatre at Ganesha park? It is well-located, the acoustics are good, and, while it is not so large as many outdoor theatres, it has been perfectly carved out by nature and it has wonderful possibilities.

In contrast, consider what has been done with, and for, the Hollywood Bowl, how it has been made a community asset and how largely it has contributed to community entertainment and culture.

The time is coming when no Southern California city will be complete without an outdoor amphitheatre. This is one of Glendale's urgent needs. Pomona is not taking advantage of her opportunities when she considers her Greek theatre in the nature of a liability.

STANDARDIZING AMERICANS

The American people are becoming standardized, it is charged. In all the vast expanse of continent between the two tion. We wear the same kind of clothes, verse. speak the same language, even to the slang phrase; we go to the same movies, we read the newspapers, which are themselves standardized; we listen to the same radio programs, sing ous system. the same songs and join the same clubs. We send our children to the same kind of schools, teach them the same subjects in the same order. There is a human uniformity here that is not found anywhere else on earth.

Obviously, standardization of human beings has its drawbacks. It would tend to make us an uninteresting people and pecially if they concern any sort would discourage genius. However, it has not yet reached the point where differences in temperament and ambition are submerged. These still tend to make life fairly exciting. One thing in favor of standardization is that the more we are like others, the better we understand them, and understanding always leads to harmony in human relationships.

RESURRECTION OR BURIAL—WHICH?

Life Worth Living?

The other day a woman in New York killed herwas tired of life and could see no hope for the proper education of her children.

The press reports every day tell us of people who for one reason or another throw away life and prefer to rush blindly into the unknown to staying and facing its problems.

An interesting sidelight on this may be gathered from the motion picture play called "Grass" which was recently exhibited in New York. It is the story of a poverty-stricken people wh leave their native heath and travel over mountains and other obstacles to get to a place where there will be grass enough for their herds their people may be properly nourished.

It is an interesting epic and shows the human struggle in its rawest terms. Men and women, fifty thousand of them, trample through the mountains seeking for a bare subsistence.

One is tempted to think that life must be worth while to these people that fight so hard to sus-

By CLARK KINNAIRD

It was observed by Emerson that every man's nature is a sufficient advertisement to him of the character of his fellows.

I may have so much more skill and strength that he cannot express adequately sense of wrong, but he feels the wrong. Love and nature cannot naintain the assumption; it must be executed by a practical lie namely, force.

"This undertaking for another," Emerson opined "is the blunder which stands in colossal ugliness in the governments of the world.

"It is the same thing in numbers as in a pair, only not quite so intelligible. "I can see well enough a great difference between my setting myself down to a self-control, and my going to make somebody else act after my views; but when a quarter of the human race assumes to tell me what I must do, I may be too much disturbed by the circumstances to see so clearly the absurdity of its command. Therefore all public ends look vague and Quixotic beside private ones. For any laws but those which men make for themselves are laughable.

"If I put myself in the place of my child, and we stand in one thought, and see that things are thus and thus, that perception is law for him and me. We are both there, both actors.

"But if, without carrying him into the thought, I look over his plot and, guessing how it is with him, ordain this or that, he will never obey me."

This is the history of governnents-one man does something which is to bind another. A man who cannot be acquainted with you, taxes you; looking afar at you, ordains that part of your labor shall go to this or that end, not as you, but as he happens to say.

Behold the consequence. Of all debts, men are least willing to pay the taxes.

Wise men agreed long ago that the less government the betterthe fewer laws, and the less confided power. Yet it seems that the whole tendency of the times in this country is in the other di

"Where the highway ends and the trail begins"-a word picture of Glendale's wonderland now being co-ordinated with the vast project of 400 miles of bridle paths from the mountains to the sea-that is the story to tell.

It is a trip from the millionaire's hilltop mansions to movieland and the beaches. It is the linking of national forests with natural parks by a route-inaccessible to motorcars. A swimming pool, barbecue pits and children's playgrounds are to be placed in Deer park, according to Mr. Walters, for the benefit of those living in the 1000-acre subdivision. A magnificent tourist hotel site overlooking the entire Verdugo canyon and adjoining valleys is being reserved. And on the crest of the bridle trail, where a sweeping view of Glendale and Los Angeles and on to the Pacific may be obtained, Mr. Sparr has conceived the building of a tea house for break-

U. S. Census Bureau Reports Los Angeles Is First Among Large Cities

The permanency of Southern California residents is indicated in figures issued by the United States bureau of the census, which shows that a greater percentage of the people of Los Angeles own their homes than of any one of eighteen of the largest cities in the United States. In an article appearing in the current issue of the Southern California Business, the official magazine of the Los Angeles Chamber of Com-merce, it is shown that what holds true to the city of Los Angeles also applies to Southern California and in fact very largely to the entire southwest. While exact figures are not giv-

COST IN BUILDING

Getting More Space From Less Room Is Idea In Building

The modern small house is prininally a problem in economy That means, if it means anything, ectnomy of space. With us two rooms must do where three were once thought to be necessary. We have to make single rooms serve double and triple purposes. Some enthusiastic schemer, carried away with this idea, once worked out a plan, part of which worked on wheels. There was a general room that was fixed in position, built like any ordinary room. Against this, as a wheel turns on a brake there was arranged a series of tiny compartments in circular form about an axle. When you put on the power, the wheel turned, bringing you, as you desired it, kitchen range, bathroom dining table or bed. The only trouble with this scheme was that nobody liked it. Nobody wants to turn a crank to bring up kitchen stove or bathtub. Besides. someone might turn the crank at the wrong time.

Secret Places in Walls

The practical, reasonable and entirely useful adaptation of this principle of economy has brought out many devices that can be worked into the walls of the rooms without increasing in any essential way, the size of the

The ironing board, for example, sets neatly between the studs in your kitchen wall. When closed it occupies no floor space whatever. Unfasten the snap that holds it in place and there, swung out before you as though struck by a fairy wand, is an ironing board with electrical attachments well braced and fastened, just the kind of an ironing board that every housewife wants. When the work is done it slips back into its place lightly and the floor space is clear. You can't get a thrill out of that, we know, but there is someone in your home that can get a lot of satisfaction out of it.

Where Is the Medicine Chest? I remember how, in the early days of childhood, mother used to go to the medicine closet to get the sugar-coated, mild medicines that the old homeopathic physician prescribed for us. That medicine chest was made of walnut.

THE external appearance of this house, plan No. 4-A-15, suggests the restfulness of the early homes in New Netherlands. It is individual in design and provides a suitable background for American home life.

The construction is wood frame on masonry foundations, with cement base course. The exterior finish is wide wood siding, or shingles, or stucco. The roof is shingled.

Q .- What kind of nails should be used with wooden shingles? A .- Use copper or zinc-coated vire nails. Q .- How thick should a concrete foundation be for a wood framed house?

A .- Unless there are unusual conditions, or unless the building ordinance of your city requires otherwise, 10 inch thickness is sufficient.

Q.—What makes crack and bulge?

A .- Cracking is caused by settlements, bending, or shrinkage in the frame work or other base behind the plaster. It is also caused by drying the plaster too rapidly, or by applying plaster to very dry lath. There are other minor causes. Bulging is generally caused by setting wood lath too

Q.-Some material that we ordered at a price that was verbally agreed upon was not delivered in good condition and the manufacturer now threatens legal action because we have refused to pay for them at the price agreed upon. What shall we do?

A .- If the material is not of the cording to specifications. The manufacturers may ask for a refa written agreement as to the price, you will probably have to pay in accordance with the manufacturers' bill unless you can prove that it is exorbitant.

Q.—Does a fireplace draw better if it is placed on an inside wall?

A .- Yes, because the flue is not chilled so easily in this posi-tion. This increases the velocity of gases in the flue, which is an other way of saying that the draft is better. With the flue on the inside of the house you will not have quite so much difficulty getting a good draft in the morning as you do in the case where the flue is on the outside.

Q.—Is it good practice to insulate the roof of a house? Are there any savings to be gained in heating? Would insulating the ceiling of the second floor be enough without attempting to insulate the roof in the at-

A .- We recommend insulating between the rafters wherever they form part of the walls of rooms as in the gambrel roof types used in Dutch colonial architecture. Otherwise it is easier and cheaper to insulate between the ceiling joists of the second story. In this way you are not losing heat in warming the attic space.

Q .- Do you consider the gambrel type of roof as cheap to build as a plain gable roof? Will the gambrel roof be as weather proof as the gabled

A.—No. The gambrel type of roof requires at least two sets of rafters for each side of the house. This means more labor, more lumber, and, consequently, more ex-The gambrel type roof is practically as weather proof as any

Subdividers Get Ruling on Income Taxes

The California Real Estate association has just been advised of a decision of first importance to owners and subdividers of real estate. It is a ruling by the treasury department at Washington, according to C. C. Hogan, assistant trust officer of the Security Trust & Savings bank of Los Angeles, who spent six weeks in Washington in conferences with officials of the bureau of internal revenue.

The departmental decision as rendered recognizes the right of the owners and subdividers of real estate to take into account in computing profits for income tax purposes all proper expenses and deductions incurred by the owners and subdividers and paid by them in the improvement and subdivision of the property, either through a trustee or directly. It upholds the contentions of the trust companies with respect to the assessment and collection of income taxes on profits realized through sales of real estate which are consummated through the medium of subdivision trusts.

Boston Concern Considering Southland Site to Make Artificial Silk

LOS ANGELES, May 23 .- Plans for the building of a textile mill and factory for the manufacture of underwear in some city in California is under consideration by the W. H. Carter Co. of Boston, one of the leading manufacturing firms in this line in the country, W. H. Carter, the president of the concern, at the Biltmore,

Mr. Carter stated that while the plans had not as yet reached a stage where detailed information could be given out, he is here some conclusion as to location and time when the enterprise will be many advantages from a manufacturing standpoint," he said.

"I have visited some of the cotton-producing areas of this section and have noted the possibilities for increase in the production of this commodity, which will, of course, have an important bearing on our final decision." Artificial Silk

The manufacturer said silk is gradually being superseded by visco," a close imitation, in the making of underwear, and predicted that within the next four or five years the new textile will have been improved to a point where the ancient product of the silkworm will no longer be used.

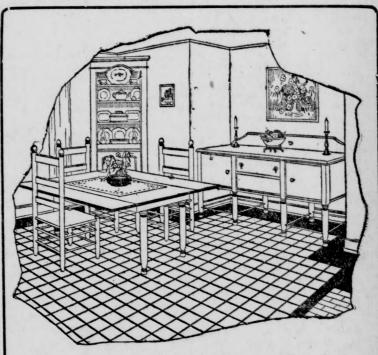

"Visco is made from cotton or wood pulp, chemically treated, and "These filaments are spun conditions, the working conditions into thread which, to all intents silk. Fabrics made from this material wear better, show greater

Entire Bible Will Be Read One Session YUCAIPA Cal., May 23 .-

Reading of the Bible will be stimulated in the Yucaipa Methodist Episcopal church by reading the entire book in one continuous session from the pulpit of the church. This will be done under the direction of Pastor E. D. Raley, who will be aided in the task by volunteer readers from the congregation. It is believed that this will be the first time in the history of the world that the entire Bible will be read aloud in one continuous session from the pulpit of any church. It is estimated that it will require approximately three days for the reading. The Rev. Ra-ley, in his announcement, states: "Beginning at midnight on Saturday, May 30, members and friends of the Yucapia church will read the entire Bible through, aloud, from the church pulpit, using all who wish to have a part in this historic achieveParachute Drop From Aeroplane May 27th paused and went on again. "Of course, when she had some critical attack, the nurse was moved. I myself gave the order. But as soon as the attack subsided, the nurse must go. Madame would not endure it." Jim understood that speech. Its very sincerity gave him a glimpse of the dead woman, made him appreciate her tough vitality. She would not give in. She did not want the paraphernalia of malady always about her. No, she would sleep in her own room, and by herself, like other women of her Yes, Jim understood that and believed every word that Betty spoke. Only-only-she was keeping something back. It was that which troubled him. What she said was true, but there was more to be said. There had been hesitation in Betty's speech, dancing with her friends on this too nice a choice of words and night when she is supposed to be then suddenly a little rush of committing the most monstrous phrases to cover up the hesitations. He looked at Hanaud, who was sitting without a movement and with his eyes fixed upon Betty's face, demanding more "He was away," returned "He went away on the 25th from her by his very impassivity. They were both, Jim felt sure, upon the edge of that little secret until the morning of the 28th." which, according to Haslitt as to Hanaud was always at the back of such wild charges as Waberski he had a better landing-net for brought—the little shameful family secret which must be buried deep from the world's eyes. And lowe. Otherwise his three days' while Jim was pondering upon sport cannot have amounted to this explanation of Betty's man- much. ner, he was suddenly startled out of his wits by a passionate cry which broke from her lips.

"Why do you look at me like that?" she cried to Hanaud, her eyes suddenly ablaze in her white moiselle. Where?" face and her lips shaking. Her voice rose to a challenge.

HOW TO SOLVE THE CROSS WORD PUZZLE

The way to solve the Cross Word Puzzle is to fill in the white squares of the diagram with the words which agree with the accompanying definitions. The definitions are numbered to correspond with the numbers on

Any word defined in the text under "HORIZONTAL" will begin at its Any word defined in the text under "HORIZONTAL" will begin at its number, shown on the diagram, and will extend all the way across to the first black space to the right of that number. That is, the word must begin in the square that contains its identifying number, and extend as far as the white squares continue uninterruptedly.

Any word defined under "VERTICAL" will also begin in the white space that contains its number, but will extend downward as far as the white spaces remain uninterruptedly.

In brief, the young man's pre-season collapse probably was the best thing that ould have happened to him.

It may have dimmed his batting eye, temporarily, but it has apprised him of the value of physical condition and that fact in the final analysis will prove the more important. Ruth will have a batting eye as long as he enjoys the privileges of breathing, but at the pace he was going, premature age would have claimed him in a few years at the most.

Baseball fans will be astonished at Ruth's appearance when he returns to the game. The writer first saw him when he came up to and his face seems younger now than it did then.

A little care in his preparation for the big moment and it is more than possible Ruth will return to baseball a greater player than ever before.

HOW ABOUT

Buying a new home this spring and starting life all over again, in surroundings that cannot fail to be congenial.

We have several good homes with different arrangements of rooms as to size, decorations and convenience that can be bought at BANK AP-PRAISALS.

Here is a sample:
7 room stucco, good appearance, living room and dining room not "gum finish" but FINISHED IN REAL GUMWOOD. A wonderfully cheerful home, front patio 11x16, three bedrooms, tile bathroom with shower, kitchen with tile sink and automatic heater, breakfast room with blue and white breakfast set, thouse just being completed. No jazz finish; choose your own wall papers, color schemes and electric fixtures. PRICED TO SELL, $6500 takes $1500 to handle, balance like rent.

OR If you want a country home here's one—2 acres and new seven room house in San Fernando valley, owner will take city lots for part payment. His price is $14,000. There is a $4000 mortgage leaving $10,000 equity. THIS IS AN A-1 HOME acreage in grapes

We have 80 acres, all in cotton, o trade for good Glendale property. 'his is San Joaquin valley property 'nd close to four large towns. INGS FOR THE CONSIDER-
